

TO STUDY OUR ANTIQUITIES.

A CONGRESS OF AMERICANISTS OPENS HERE TO-DAY.

It includes many noted European Antiquaries Who Are Seeking Light Upon the Ancient Races of This Country and Their Origin—To Last a Whole Week.

At the American Museum of Natural History there will begin to-day the fourteenth session of the International Congress of Americanists, which will continue until the end of this week. This is the first time the congress has come to this country, although it was formed, as its name shows, to study American subjects.

It is an outcome of a small organization formed in Paris in 1857—"La Société Américaniste de France." Its organizers were a number of scientists interested in the study of the pre-Columbian history of the American continent, and particularly in the ancient civilizations of Mexico and Peru.

In 1875 the congress was formed at Nancy, France, and became an international organization. It has held sessions in Madrid, Brussels, Copenhagen, Berlin, Stockholm, Paris, Turin, Luxembourg and Havana. Some of the American congresses have been under royal patronage, and the presidents and members of the congresses have been men of distinguished attainments.

At the session in Paris in 1900 it was decided, upon the invitation of Morris K. Jesup, to hold the congress here this year. The subjects to be discussed are (1) the Native Races of America; their origin, distribution, history, physical characteristics, languages, inventions, customs and religions; and (2) the History of the Early contact between America and the Old World.

What is the approximate antiquity of man in America? Where did the Indian come from? Was America known to the Old World before Columbus and whence originated the ancient peoples of Mexico and Peru? These among others will be questions coming before the congress for discussion. Something like eighty papers are scheduled for presentation.

Most European Governments will be represented in the congress, and the scientists especially designated by their Ministers or consuls. Besides, there will be present many scientific men from abroad not officially connected with Governments.

Among the European representatives will be Prof. Leon Lebel of the chair of American antiquities of the College of France at Paris; Prof. Edouard Seler of the chair of American antiquities at the University of Berlin; and Prof. von der Steinen of the same university. The last together will represent the Prussian Government. Others will be Prof. H. J. Aldrich, Secretary of the Royal Ethnological Museum of Stockholm; Prof. J. D. E. Schmidt of the State Ethnological Museum at Leipzig; the Consul-General of Italy, the Consul-General of Spain, Señor Alfredo Chavero, Dr. Nicolas León of the Anthropological National Museum at Mexico, Dr. H. Putzer, director of the Instituto Physico Geográfico and Prof. Juan Pérez, from Chihuahua; and Prof. Juan B. Ambrosetti of the National Museum at Buenos Ayres.

Mayor or Law President Butler of Columbia, and Chancellor MacFarlane of New York University will open the congress. Among the topics discussed will be the recent findings of the bones of the Lansing man, lately unearthed near Lansing, Kan. The man of whom these are a relic is estimated by some geologists to have lived 10,000 years of more ago. The bones, the results of the last expedition to the Northwest, excavations in Mexico and South America and Esquimaux languages are also among the subjects to come up.

A Committee of Organization to sustain Mr. Jesup's invitation to the congress to convene here this year was made up with Mr. Jesup, president of the Day of the Americas, who has given $1,000,000 to Columbia University and founded chairs of American antiquities at Paris and Berlin, vice-president, Marshall H. Saville, general secretary, and Harlan I. Smith, treasurer. The members of the committee's general commission are:

Dr. Franz Boss of Columbia, Prof. F. W. Putnam of Harvard, Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago, Prof. H. H. Holmes, United States National Museum, Prof. E. G. Bourneville, Edward S. Morse of the National Academy of Sciences, Walter Fawcett of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Prof. J. M. Meigs of the National Geographic Society, Prof. T. F. Crane of Cornell, H. C. Houder, director of the Museum of Natural History, Prof. A. S. Peckard of Brown, Secretary of the American Association of Anthropologists, Prof. F. W. Hodge of the Smithsonian Institution, Prof. G. B. Peck of the University of Vermont, Prof. John C. Branner of Leland Stanford University, Prof. W. J. Holland of Carnegie Museum, Prof. William B. Scott of Princeton, Daniel C. Gilman of Johns Hopkins, Prof. A. B. Hodge of the University of California, Henry W. Hayes of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and Massachusetts Historical Society, Prof. George A. Dorsey of the Field Columbian Museum, Charles B. Dyer of the American Antiquarian Society, G. ## CHESS.

Lasker Beats Hodges in a Dutch Defence After Forty-six Moves.

Champion Lasker was scheduled to play the Rematch with Hodges at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday afternoon, but the latter arranged with A. B. Hodges that he should measure his strength against the champion of the world in a match on Thursday evening. The match was played on Thursday evening, and the champion of the world, who had been playing the Dutch defence, which had been played by him for as long as a position, and Hodges was concerned the game remained even during the whole day, and only at the end of the game Lasker managed to obtain a strategic advantage by playing one of his own moves. Hodges then set out for the move and succeeded in winning it. True, Hodges controlled matters until the end of the game, but Lasker, however, had established a passed pawn on the queen's side, and on Hodges overlooking the importance of it made a few moves, which enabled the champion to win after forty-six moves. The last move, the champion in a match game this evening. The score of the game follows:
